ABSTRACT

The Government Documents Collection of the Calvin T. Ryan Library of the University of Nebraska at Kearney contains a broad range of information on a variety of topics, including curriculum guides and materials. This bibliography gathers government documents of special interest to education students, practicing teachers, and teachers of adult students. Most documents listed are federal, but some Nebraska state documents are annotated. Curriculum guides and supplements, print and nonprint materials, bibliographies, evaluation materials and standards, project examples, and study guides, workbooks, and activity books are included in the following categories: (1) alcohol and drug abuse; (2) career and vocational education; (3) emergency services, traffic safety, and law enforcement; (4) family life and parenting; (5) foreign languages; (6) health, fitness, and nutrition; (7) miscellaneous topics/general; (8) nursing; (9) occupational safety and health; (10) home, school, and automotive safety; (11) social services; and (12) special education. The 165 titles are also indexed by subject. (SLD)

INTRODUCTION

The Government Documents Collection of Calvin T. Ryan Library contains a wealth of information on a wide range of topics and has different types of publications including studies, reports, etc. One of the more difficult types to locate is curriculum material. A number of government agencies publish curriculum guides and supplements which are scattered throughout the collection.

This bibliography and its companion bibliography, "Curriculum Materials for use with Grades K-12: A Bibliography of Government Documents", attempt to gather together, as comprehensively as possible, government documents of special interest to students pursuing careers in education, practicing teachers, and teachers of adult students, including college faculty. Most of the material is not copyrighted and can be copied. All of the titles on the bibliography can be checked out of the library for four weeks.

When the bibliography was originally compiled, both K-12 and adult level materials were included in one list. With this revision, however, the two audience levels provided a natural division for separating what had become a listing of unwieldy length. There is now a separate bibliography of curriculum guides and supplements designed for use with pre-school through twelfth grade students and another for materials which are geared toward adult audiences. The user should bear in mind, however, that upper level high school students would benefit from many adult level guides and both bibliographies should be consulted for comprehensive coverage.

With this revision, also, annotation of titles was expanded to include almost all of the entries on both lists. Subject coverage, a description of various parts of a set (if applicable), and audience level were included in the annotation whenever possible. Each entry has the publication date, number of pages, and the call number which must be used to find the document in the collection. A decision was made to use only the broad government agency as the author of the document, rather than listing the broad agency plus several subagencies. In general, titles published prior to 1980 were dropped from the bibliographies. A select few, published before this date, are included because the information is not out of date. The word "Kit" has been used to describe multimedia sets which may contain a printed volume, a poster, a set of duplication masters, charts, transparencies, or other supplementary material.

The bibliographies attempt to be as comprehensive as possible in the inclusion of curriculum guides and supplements. Certain types of publications were excluded, however, including studies, results of surveys, technical reports, conference reports, journals, essays, statistical publications, and others deemed to not be of immediate practical use to the teaching profession. Some of the titles included are in Spanish or are designed for bilingual teaching.

Several different types of publications have been included. The pre-school-12th grade bibliography contains:

curriculum guides	student study guides
curriculum supplements	student workbooks
sources of government and	activity books
non-governmental print	story books
and non-print materials	coloring books
bibliographies	comic books
evaluation guides
standards for evaluation
examples of innovations and
exemplary projects

The adult level bibliography contains the same types of publications, with certain obvious exceptions (comic books, etc.) and, in addition, also has lecture summary cards for teachers, guides for educating community groups and the general public, and professional level materials. Subject coverage is broad and includes topics such as AIDS, automobile repair, child abuse, driver's education, the elderly, fitness, health care, occupational safety, prenatal care, sexuality, and traffic safety.

Arrangement of the entries is by broad subject heading, with a subject index in the back to provide more detailed subject access. Within most broad subject sections are two parts, one which lists and describes the guides and supplements and another which contains bibliographies and sources of materials on the subject. A miscellaneous section in both bibliographies lists titles that either were too few in number to list in separate subject sections, did not readily fit in any subject section, or contain information covering several subjects. Titles are listed only once on each bibliography. Users are advised to consult the subject index for related topics and for titles which contain several subjects but are listed under only one.
